Transparency Act - account of due diligence

Introduction

July 1st 2022 the transparency act was enforced. The purpose of the act is to highlight respect for fundamental human rights and working conditions for businesses in the production of goods and services. The act is intended to secure public insight to how businesses handle negative consequences of human rights and working conditions, if any.

The act is applicable for larger entities based in Norway, that offer goods and services both in Norway and internationally. Vimond Media Solutions AS ("Vimond") is enforced by the transparency act due to threshold criteria of revenue and balance amount. The following is Vimond's report of responsible business conduct for the period January 1, 2025 to December 31, 2025.

The report is available at our website: <https://www.vimond.com/company/transparency-act> impact or damage on human rights or decent working conditions in our own operations, supply chain and other business relationships. Vimond has in place systems for receiving and responding to requests for information and continuous assessment of supply chain and business partners and taking steps to prevent or mitigate any such adverse impact.

Risk assessments

Prioritisation of risk is done by categorising suppliers and other business partners in risk groups based on the line of business, country of operation and size of purchased goods and services together with severity, extent, and probability of potential negative impact that these suppliers and business partners have on human rights and decent working conditions, and the interval re-assessments are to be conducted.

1. High Risk : Needs to be assessed every 12 months
2. Middle Risk: Uncertain risk. Assessment every 12-24 months.
3. Low Risk: Assessed to have low risk, or a risk Vimond can not impact. Assessments on an ad-hoc basis, or based on information on changes.

The current assessments have not concluded any high risk findings. For the reporting period and per signature date Vimond has not detected any negative impact or damage on human rights or decent working conditions in Vimond or in the supply chain. Vimond has further not received reports of any such incidents.
